LONDON PROGRAMME:

Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) in Modern Practice: Strategy, Process, and Global Enforcement

Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) has become an essential component of modern dispute management in both domestic and cross-border contexts. Businesses, governments, and international organisations increasingly rely on mediation, arbitration, and negotiated settlement to manage risk, reduce cost and delay, and preserve commercial relationships.

This intensive five-day programme provides a practical and internationally relevant understanding of how ADR mechanisms operate and how they should be used strategically. Participants will explore mediation, arbitration, negotiation, and hybrid processes within a structured framework that emphasises decision-making, risk management, and enforceability.

The programme also examines the international legal architecture supporting ADR, including the UNCITRAL Model Law and the New York Convention 1958 on the Recognition and Enforcement of Arbitral Awards. The course equips participants with the knowledge required to evaluate, select, and implement appropriate dispute resolution strategies in commercial and international settings.

This programme is suitable for lawyers, in-house counsel, commercial managers, executives, and professionals responsible for managing disputes or drafting dispute resolution clauses.
