LONDON PROGRAMME: INTERNATIONAL SHIPPING LAW

This five-day course provides a practical introduction to the legal framework governing international shipping contracts and the carriage of goods by sea. Participants will examine the formation and structure of charterparties, including time, voyage and contracts of affreightment, and explore the key contractual terms that allocate commercial risk in maritime trade. The programme also covers the functions of bills of lading, their relationship with charterparties, and the application of international conventions such as the Hague and Hague-Visby Rules. Further sessions analyse breach of contract, termination rights, damages, and the allocation of delay-related risks through mechanisms such as laytime, demurrage, force majeure and frustration. The final part of the course focuses on dispute resolution in shipping contracts, including arbitration under the London Maritime Arbitrators Association (LMAA) and jurisdiction clauses. Practical case studies based on recent English court decisions and standard form contracts ensure participants gain commercially relevant, real-world insights.
